

The Microeconomics of Climate Change: Lessons for India

Matthew E. Kahn

Abstract: Matthew E. Kahn will discuss why he conducts research on the microeconomics of climate change adaptation and what are the open questions in this field. He will sketch out the main points from his 2021 Yale University Press book: Adapting to Climate Change: Markets and the Management of an Uncertain Future. He will then pivot to discussing the specific challenges that developing (and urbanizing) nations such as India will be likely to confront in the face of rising climate risk.